Commitment to coexistence and regulations

Structure: A student from higher courses will accompany the new students for a good reception. The manager is in direct contact with the MiKasita team.

Coexistence: At home, the study and work environment is fundamental. A commitment to coexistence is expected of all residents: that they comply with the operating rules and respect the hours of study and rest of their classmates.

Academic advising: The central element of university life is academic. Residents have at their disposal, if they wish, an academic advisory service. The program consists of advising on career queries and following up on personal study. Our daily objective is to promote academic performance, as a key element of the personal and human growth of students through the development of study habits.

Responsibility: To guarantee a good coexistence and the best academic results, it is important to show a proactive and responsible attitude. Respect for colleagues, neighbors and the rules of coexistence, reasonable order, reasonable energy consumption and a good study environment are the pillars of our residence philosophy.

For this reason, at Mi Kasita we encourage and promote responsibility among our residents through social, educational and cultural activities, making them participants in a more responsible university community.
